Dr. Ashok K. Gupta is a highly accomplished surgeon and teacher. Having completed all his primary medical and surgical education from Government Medical College, Nagpur, and then affiliated to the Grant Medical College, Mumbai, he felt that he owed certain obligations to people of the State. To materialise his dream of social service, he began conducting free reconstructive surgeries for the underprivileged in the remote areas. Despite many odds, he continued to help the poor in backward areas in Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh, Punjab and Rajasthan.. Dr. Ashok K. Gupta also responded to the call on the nation and extended his highly specialized services to the victims of a number of natural and man-made calamities such as riots during the post Lok Sabha Election 1984, Babri Masjid related violent episodes 1992, the infamous Serial Mumbai Bomb Blasts 1993, heroes of Kargil War, victims of Bhuj Earth Quake, terrorist attack at Akshardham Temple at Gujarat, 2002, Serial Bomb Blasts in Mumbai 2003, Train Bomb Blasts in Mumbai 2006 and the recent Terrorists Attack / Siege of Mumbai on 26th November 2008.

- 31) Voluntary service and Complex Life Saving / Limb Saving Reconstructive Micro Surgical procedures on a number of victims of “The Kargil War”, “The Earth Quake” at Bhuj and the Terrorist attack at Akshardham, Gujrat.
- 32) Numerous complex to very Complex Life Saving / Limb Saving Microsurgical procedures during last 25 years of Active Practice of the Science of Plastic & Reconstructive Micro Surgery.
- 33) Over 5000 Free Reconstructive Plastic Surgical procedures on underprivileged children at remote and tribal areas of different States like Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh, Gujarat, Bihar, Punjab, Uttar Pradesh, Hariyana and other parts of the Country, during last 20 years for poor patients needing services of Plastic Surgery and Reconstructive Microsurgery.

Dr. A. K. Gupta has featured in the Book on “History of Microsurgery”.

For many Dr. A. K. Gupta is the best example of medical miracle man with a golden heart and exceptionally gifted hand. He also has the unique opportunity to treat both “rich and famous to poor and downtrodden” at the same time.
